Stop Walking When Talking

The patient walks at his own comfortable pace and the examiner walks just behind him. After walking for 10 seconds, the evaluator initiates a conversation (on any topic, for example the patient's drugs) while continuing to walk. The test is positive if the patient stops walking within one second. The evaluator then stops walking.